Carol and Jeck worked hard and bought their home in Loyaltown in 1963, where they raised their family. Carol worked in the garment industry while raising the kids, making the house a home and enjoying family. Carol was an amazing cook, loved working in the yard and growing her favorite flower, the iris. Carol and Jeck made many happy memories as they hosted family gatherings (especially Thanksgiving and Christmas), starting their own business (Kissy's Septic) and spending time at "camp". Carol loved babies, spending time with family, cooking (especially her chicken pot pie!), puzzles, creating personalized Christmas stockings for each family member, family bingo outings, family reunions and attending Immanuel-Wesley UMC, Loyalton.
